

COUNTER INDIAN MISINFO
Home adviser
tells journos

OUR CORRESPONDENT, Rangpur

Home Affairs Adviser Lt Gen (ret'd) Md Jahangir Alam Chowdhury yesterday accused Indian media of spreading false information about Bangladesh and called on local journalists to counter the propaganda.

Speaking during a visit to the family of Abu Sayed in Rangpur's Pirganj, he said, "It is the duty of Bangladeshi journalists to expose the truth and hold Indian media accountable for their lies."

He expressed confidence in the integrity of Bangladeshi journalists, urging them to report corruption wherever it exists, even within government institutions. "If you find any corruption, even involving me personally, do report it," he added.

The adviser praised Abu Sayed's bravery and announced government support for a foundation to be established in his name. He also confirmed the arrest of three suspects in connection with Sayed's murder and assured that the trial would begin soon, saying, "No one will be spared."

Addressing concerns over police recruitment irregularities, he clarified that no corruption allegations had been reported. "If you uncover any wrongdoing, report it, and we will take action," he said.

The event was attended by senior officials, including Major General Asfaquzzaman, director general of Border Guard Bangladesh, and AKM Shahidur Rahman, director general of Rapid Action Battalion.

DC Conference
from February 16

BAHARAM KHAN

The three-day Deputy Commissioner Conference will be held in Dhaka from February 16 to 18.

Chief Adviser Professor Muhammad Yunus inaugurating the event, confirmed sources from the CA's Office and Cabinet Division. The working sessions will take place at the Osmani Memorial Auditorium.

Due to the reduced number of advisers in the interim government, the number of sessions will be fewer than last year's 26.

Typically, VIP sessions include meetings with the President, Chief Adviser, Speaker, Chief Justice, and Election Commission, but with the Speaker's position vacant, that session will not occur. Another VIP session may also be cancelled.

The DC Conference serves as a platform for DCs to discuss proposals with ministers and secretaries. However, this year's event may differ due to political circumstances.

With no clear policy direction from the interim government, DCs are cautious about their proposals, which typically align with the ruling party's election manifesto. Officials have encouraged proposals focused on reducing public suffering and improving access to government services.

The deadline for submitting proposals has been extended, with the Cabinet Division expecting all submissions by December. New DCs, with only a few months of experience, face additional challenges in preparing proposals.

Separate train accidents kill man, hit car

STAR REPORT

A person was killed and a car damaged in two separate train accidents in the capital on Sunday evening.

At Moghbazar level crossing, the Egarosindur Provati train, bound to Dhaka from Kishoreganj, hit a private car around 5:45pm.

The car couldn't move away from the tracks in time due to a traffic jam, Joyal Abedin, officer-in-charge of Dhaka Railway Police Station told The Daily Star.

Though the car was damaged, passengers and the driver could escape the vehicle, he added.

There were no casualties in the incident.

Meanwhile, Dhaka Railway Police Station Sub-Inspector Nazrul Islam said the Sylhet-bound Kalni Express hit an unidentified male, aged around 45, around 3:40pm at Tejgaon rail gate, leading to his death.

A jail super's mission to teach kids stay afloat

SHAHEEN MOLLAH

Every evening, a group of 25 to 30 children, aged between 8 and 14, gather by a pond in Barguna's LGED Bhaban.

Under the watchful eyes of their coach, they glide from one corner of the pond to another. Their laughter mingles with the sound of splashes.

For many, this is their first experience learning to swim - a skill that could one day save their lives.

In Barguna, a coastal district where the risk of drowning looms large, such opportunities are rare. Despite the area's proximity to water, there are no swimming training centres or pools. Tragically, this gap has led to countless preventable deaths.

Over 14,000 children die from drowning in Bangladesh each year, according to Unicef.

On average, 40 children drown in Bangladesh's ponds and rivers each day during the monsoon season.

Most of these deaths are reported from coastal regions like Barguna.

Hence, Jail Superintendent Amzad Hossain Don has decided to step in. Imagine a jail superintendent. Perhaps you picture an angry old man. But Amzad defies every stereotype.

A former award-winning national swimmer and a gold medalist in cycling, he has taken it upon himself to teach these children the vital skill of swimming - free of charge.

"My mantra is simple: learn swimming, save lives," he says, as he guides the children with a mix of discipline and encouragement.

He has been teaching swimming to children in Barguna for the past two years and has trained approximately 100 young learners during this time.

He dreams of a proper swimming pool in Barguna to train even more children.

Monisha, one of the trainees, said, "I was scared of water, but now I can swim across the pond!" Her mother, Rahima Begum, expresses her gratitude: "We can finally stop worrying every time our children go near water."

67 Chikungunya, 11
Zika cases reported
this year: DGHS

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

During the dengue detection effort this year, 67 cases of Chikungunya and 11 cases of Zika virus have been identified so far, according to the Directorate General of Health Services (DGHS).

Halimur Rashid, line director of Infectious Disease Control Program at DGHS, shared this information during a press conference held at the DGHS yesterday.

DGHS Director General Professor Abu Jafor said the number of dengue infections and deaths this year is significantly higher than previous years.

Jafor said, "Patients with dengue usually do not come to the hospital unless their condition becomes critical. As a result, they often go into shock within a very short time."

"The reason is that people are not taking dengue seriously enough [in Dhaka], leading to increased fatalities," he added.

His thoughts more relevant

we need political honesty, awareness, and strength," he said.

Praising Abul Mansur Ahmad's political philosophy, Prof Khan said during the drafting of Bangladesh's constitution, Abul Mansur Ahmad raised many objections.

In his later editions of "Amar Dekha Rajniti Ponchash Bochor", Abul Mansur incorporated these concerns, which seem more relevant in the aftermath of July uprising, said Prof Khan.

"Sheikh Mujib had invited Abul Mansur to suggest constitutional amendments, which he did, but Mujib ultimately ignored them, breaking his promises," he added.

Discussing the constitution, Prof Khan said, "Bangladesh's constitution is in a faint state. According to the constitution, people are the source of all power, which is a grand deception. Instead, it should declare that the people are the sole sovereign authority, ensuring they can remove a failed government."

Constitutional expert Arif Khan said Abul Mansur Ahmad advocated for religious freedom for all in his political thought.

"Both our struggles in 1971 and 2024 were against inequality. Abul Mansur consistently worked against discrimination. A prominent figure in the anti-British movement, he was instrumental in empowering Bangalee Muslims."

CU Pro-VC (Administration) Prof Md Kamal Uddin said, throughout history, significant reforms have been driven by mass movements rather than elites.

"However, Abul Mansur, despite being an elite, played a critical role in such movements," he added.

Emran Mahfuz, convener of Abul Mansur Ahmad Memorial Council, said, "Abul Mansur said a democratic government could function properly if its citizens remain vigilant. Without collective action, sporadic movements cannot bring lasting change," he said.

The event was presided over by CU teacher Kh Ali Ar Raji, also an adviser to the CU chapter of Rastrochinta, and was moderated by Rastrochinta member Tanveen Kayes.
