Far-right surge 'last warning' for parties

Says polls winner Merz

AFP, Berlin

Germany's conservative election winner Friedrich Merz said yesterday that the surge of the far-right AfD to 20 percent voter support was "the last warning" to the country's mainstream parties.

The anti-immigration Alternative for Germany (AfD) scored its best-ever result in Sunday's election after a campaign marred by a spate of deadly car-ramming and stabbing attacks blamed on migrants.

Merz, of the centre-right Christian Democrats (CDU), has vowed a crackdown on immigration and a "zero tolerance" law and order drive to ease public fears and win back voters drifting to the far-right party.

"This is really the last warning to the political parties of the democratic centre in Germany to come to joint solutions," Merz said at a Berlin press conference.

Merz pointed to the especially strong gains of the far-right party in the ex-communist east, the AfD's heartland.

Era of 'dictators' could return

Warns UN rights chief as global system undergoing 'tectonic shift'

AFP, Geneva

The international system is in upheaval with human rights being "suffocated", the United Nations said yesterday, warning that an era of "dictators" could return.

During an opening address at the UN Human Rights Council's main annual session, UN rights chief Volker Turk painted a dark picture of a "very dangerous" situation in a world increasingly dominated by authoritarianism.

He did not mention any country – even as the world grapples with the Russia-Ukraine war, dramatic changes in the United States and a more assertive China.

It was clear, he said though, that "the international system is going through a tectonic shift".

"The human rights edifice we have built up so painstakingly over decades has never been under so much strain."

UN 'gravely concerned' by violence in West Bank

Gaza truce in doubt as first phase nears end

AGENCIES

The UN chief yesterday voiced alarm at rising violence by Israeli settlers in the West Bank and calls for annexation after Israel announced expanded military operations in the occupied Palestinian territory.

Israel on Sunday said its troops would remain for many months in refugee camps in the occupied West Bank. Tens of thousands of Palestinians living there have been displaced by an intensifying military operation.

"I am gravely concerned by the rising violence in the occupied West Bank by Israeli settlers and other violations, as well as calls for annexation," Antonio Guterres told the United Nations Human Rights Council in Geneva.

He also stressed the importance of the fragile ceasefire in place in Gaza since January 19, reports AFP.

As the first phase of the ceasefire between

Israel and Hamas in Gaza is meant to be drawing to an end, it has once again been put in doubt.

Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu said later on Sunday that Israel was prepared to resume fighting against Hamas after the Palestinian group accused it of endangering a five-week-old Gaza truce by suspending prisoner releases.

Hamas official Basem Naim said talks with Israel through mediators on further steps in a ceasefire agreement are conditional on Palestinian prisoners being released as agreed, reports Reuters.

The White House on Sunday backed Israel's decision to delay releasing the Palestinian prisoners, citing the "barbaric treatment" of Israeli hostages by Hamas.

The delay was an "appropriate response" to the Palestinian group's treatment of the hostages, a statement from National Security Council spokesman Brian Hughes said.

British couple arrested by Taliban: family

AFP, London

An elderly British couple have been arrested by Taliban authorities in Afghanistan, their daughter said yesterday, urging UK diplomats to do "everything in their power" to secure their release.

Peter and Barbie Reynolds, who are in their seventies, have run school training programmes in the south Asian country for 18 years.

Their daughter Sarah Entwistle and her three brothers had initially chosen not to involve the UK authorities "hoping to hear directly from the Taliban about why they'd arrested our parents", she told TimesRadio yesterday.

"Our parents have always sought to honour the Taliban, so we wanted to give them the opportunity to explain their reasons for this detention," she said.

"However, after more than three weeks of silence, we can no longer wait. We're now urgently calling on the British consulate to do everything in their power to get us answers and to put as much pressure as they can on the Taliban for their release," she added.

The Taliban administration and the British Foreign Office declined to comment. The Reynolds, who married in Kabul in 1970, remained in Afghanistan after the Taliban takeover in 2021.

British MP jailed for 10 weeks for punching passerby

AFP, London

A lawmaker suspended from Britain's ruling Labour party was jailed for 10 weeks yesterday after pleading guilty to punching a man, potentially triggering an election test for Prime Minister Keir Starmer.

MP Mike Amesbury got into a late-night street altercation with a man who complained to him about a bridge closure, which ended with the man being knocked to the ground. Labour suspended Amesbury, 55, after the Mail Online published a video that apparently showed the assault and he now sits in parliament as an independent. Starmer said his party had moved "very swiftly" to suspend the lawmaker.

Xi hails Russia's 'positive efforts to defuse crisis'

AFP, Beijing

Chinese President Xi Jinping yesterday hailed Moscow's "positive efforts to defuse" the Ukraine crisis in a call with his Russian counterpart Vladimir Putin, state media said.

Xinhua news agency reported Xi as saying "China is happy to see Russia and relevant parties make positive efforts to defuse" the crisis in Ukraine.

Moscow and Beijing have strengthened military and trade ties since Russia sent troops into Ukraine, though China has sought to depict itself as a neutral party amid the nearly three-year conflict.

Beijing remains a close political and economic partner of Moscow and has never condemned Russia's actions.

Speaking of China's ties with Russia, Xi said "history and reality" show the two countries "are good neighbours that cannot be moved away, and true friends who share weal and woe, support each other and achieve common development", Xinhua reported.

The Kremlin later said Putin "briefed" Xi on the talks between Russian and US officials held in Saudi Arabia -- their first high-level meeting since Russia sent troops into Ukraine three years ago.

Trump admin eliminating 1,600 USAID jobs in US

REUTERS, Washington

President Donald Trump's administration said on Sunday it was placing all personnel at the foreign assistance agency USAID, except leaders and critical staff, on paid administrative leave and eliminating 1,600 positions in the United States.

Billionaire Elon Musk's Department of Government Efficiency has led an effort to gut the US Agency for International Development, the main delivery mechanism for American foreign assistance and a critical tool of US "soft power" for winning influence abroad.

"I regret to inform you that you are affected by a Reduction in Force action," said an email sent to one of the workers being fired that was reviewed by Reuters.

Those who got the note will be let go from federal service effective April 24, the email said. USAID said on its website that just before midnight on Sunday US Eastern Time, all direct hires except essential workers will be put on leave.
