Hamas welcomes it

REUTERS, Cairo

Israel criticised a plan put forward by Arab states for Gaza's reconstruction on Tuesday, while Palestinian group Hamas welcomed it.

The White House said the plan adopted by Arab states did not address Gaza's reality and that US President Donald Trump stood by his proposal.

Meanwhile, Israel's newly appointed military chief Eyal Zamir said yesterday that his country's mission to defeat Hamas was not yet accomplished.

Arab leaders adopted an Egyptian reconstruction plan for Gaza that would cost $53 billion and avoid displacing Palestinians from the enclave.

Trump's plan to displace Palestinians in a US takeover of the enclave received global condemnation last month.

TERRORIST ARREST Pakistan hails renewed co- op with US

Pakistan trumpeted the arrest of Mohammad Sharifullah, whom it blames for a 2021 attack on US troops, in a military operation along the border with Afghanistan, as the result of its renewal of counter-terrorism cooperation with US.

Yesterday's news came hours after US President Trump thanked Pakistan for the arrest during remarks to Congress, adding that Sharifullah was on his way to the US to face justice. "We will continue to partner closely with the United States in securing regional peace and stability," Prime Minister Shehbaz Sharif said in a statement.

Zelensky ready for Russia talks, mineral deal

Says Trump during his speech to Congress; US curbs intelligence sharing with Ukraine

AFP, Washington

US President Donald Trump said later on Tuesday that Ukraine's leader Volodymyr Zelensky has told him Kyiv was ready for talks with Russia and the finalisation of a US minerals deal, days after the pair's explosive White House meeting.

The dramatic collapse of Kyiv and Washington's wartime alliance has played out in the open since the televised dispute in the Oval Office last week, followed by Ukraine's top ally suspending crucial military aid.

Zelensky has since sought to bring Trump back onside, posting on social media that their clash was "regrettable" and he wanted "to make things right".

US will get it 'one way

US 'taking back'
Panama Canal after ports deal: Trump

In his partisan speech to US Congress, Trump read aloud from a letter he said he recently received from Zelensky, which matched the social media statement.

Russia welcomed Zelensky's statement that Kyiv is willing to negotiate over the war, but it is not yet clear to Moscow who it might be negotiating with, the Kremlin said yesterday.

Meanwhile, the US has "paused" intelligence sharing with Ukraine, CIA director John Ratcliffe said yesterday.

During his address to Congress, Trump urged Greenland to choose to join the United States but vowed to take the Danish-ruled island "one way or the other" – whatever the locals decide.

The US had started to take back the Panama Canal after a deal by a Hong Kong firm to sell ports to a US-led consortium, he also said.

"To further enhance our national security, my administration will be reclaiming the Panama Canal, and we've already started doing it," he told Congress.

EU states agree to roll out automated border system

AFP, Brussels

EU member states yesterday agreed on a phased rollout of a new border check system for non-EU nationals which will do away with passport stamps.

The so-called Entry/Exit System (EES) was initially supposed to kick in last November but was delayed at the last minute as several states were not ready.

First agreed on in 2017, the automated system will record visitors' date of entry and exit and keep track of overstays and refused entries.

But its introduction has raised fears of longer waiting times for people travelling to Europe on trains, ferries and planes.

DELIMITATION EXERCISE India opposition unites against Modi's plan

REUTERS, New Delhi

India's opposition party politicians in the southern states yesterday met to protest plans by Prime Minister Narendra Modi's government to redraw constituencies based on the 2011 census, on concerns the northern states would dominate in parliament.

The protest, led by M K Stalin, chief minister of Tamil Nadu state, has been backed by the national Congress party and over a dozen others in five southern states, which are enjoying faster economic growth than northern counterparts while keeping a lid on population growth.

Stalin tabled a resolution to ensure that the so-called delimitation exercise, or redrawing of boundaries, be based on 1971 population levels and retained till 2056 to ensure that densely populated northern states taper population growth.

The 1971 census paved the way for the last redrawing of such boundaries and created 543 seats in parliament. Now, leaders from the south want the status quo retained, until a formula providing equal representation is drawn up.

"We are not against delimitation and yet it shouldn't be a punishment for those who are successful in controlling population," said Sarvanan Annadurai, spokesperson of DMK party.

4,000 displaced by battle for port site in Rakhine Says Myanmar aid group

AFP, Yangon

Fierce fighting between Myanmar's military junta and ethnic minority rebels closing in on the planned site of a strategic China-backed port has displaced 4,000 people, a local aid worker said yesterday.

The Arakan Army (AA) is battling the military in western Rakhine state, where projects including oil pipelines, power plants and transport links are sprouting up with billions of dollars of Chinese funding. The region has emerged as a key front in Myanmar's civil war, pitching a myriad of rebels and pro-democracy fighters against the junta.
