Star Cineplex's steep ticket price hike sparks public outcry

Star Cineplex has recently significantly increased its ticket prices without prior notice, leading to widespread criticism from the public and the film industry.

Previously, ticket prices ranged from Tk 350 to 1,500. Now, they have surged to between Tk 400 and Tk 1,800, depending on the showtime and seating class. Matinee shows, which were once more affordable, have seen hikes of Tk 50 to 150, while evening and weekend shows have increased by Tk 200 to 300. The most expensive royal seats now cost Tk 1,800, a steep rise from the earlier Tk 1,500.

The sudden price hike drew backlash online, with noted director Dipankar Dipon writing on Facebook that a movie outing for two now costs nearly Tk 2,000—including tickets, snacks, and transport—an amount burdensome for lower-middle-income families.

Saraf Ahmed Zibon, director of the Eid release Chokkor 302, starring Mosharraf Karim, voiced disappointment over limited showtimes and high-ticket prices, which he fears may drive away students and middle-income groups. "We need systemic changes to support young filmmakers and the Bangladeshi film industry," he emphasised.

In response to the backlash, Mesbah Uddin Ahmed, senior manager of Media and Marketing at Star Cineplex, acknowledged the price adjustments. He explained that the changes were made to align with current circumstances and that the highest priced tickets are for VIP seats. "We have increased prices slightly to ensure a better experience for our audience," he stated.

Back in 2016 the band, known for blending activism with music, previously take a swipe at US President Donald Trump and MAGA supporters.

Armstrong opened with American Idiot, declaring, "I'm not part of the MAGA agenda," and introduced Holiday as an "anti-war" anthem. Their set featured hits like Basket Case, Wake Me Up When September Ends, and Minority.

Rajuk officials, had six plots allotted to herself, her son Joy, daughter Saima Wazed Putul, younger sister Sheikha Rizwana Siddiq and two former Rajuk officials, accusing them of being involved in the illegal transfer of a luxury flat in the capital's Gulshan area by abusing official power and accepting undue privileges from real estate developer Eastern Housing Limited.

The case was lodged yesterday by ACC Deputy Director Monirul Islam at the commission's Dhaka Integrated District Office. The two others named in the case are Shah Md Khasruzzaman and Sardar Mosharraf Hossain, both former assistant legal advisors at Rajuk.

ACC Director General Akhtar Hossain said the accused are charged with criminal conspiracy, breach of trust, and misuse of power to unlawfully gain possession of a flat without any financial transaction.

The flat in question—Flat No.B/201, House No. 5A and 5B (old), now 113 and 11B (new), Road 71, Gulshan-2—was allegedly handed over to Siddiq as an illicit benefit and was later registered in her name.

According to the first information report (FIR), Tulip received the flat free of cost as a form of illegal benefit. This allegation is backed by a letter from Eastern Housing stating Siddiq was given the flat without payment. Additionally, a separate letter from the company to Dhaka City Corporation dated May 19, 2001—during Hasina's tenure—confirms that Siddiq had occupied the flat since then and had been paying holding tax.

TULIP'S RESPONSE

Tulip Siddiq said on Monday an arrest warrant issued against her in Bangladesh over allegations she illegally received a plot of land are a "politically motivated smear".

"It's a completely politically motivated smear campaign, trying to harass me. There is no evidence that I've done anything wrong," Siddiq told reporters.

"No one from the Bangladeshi authorities has contacted me. The entire time, they've done trial by media."

Rezaul Karim Mallik is not related to the issue involving Meghna.

He said, "The transfer of the DB chief has no connection with the Meghna Alam issue. This is a routine process. Officials come and go as part of regular duty rotation."

On Sunday, the High Court issued a rule asking the government authorities concerned to explain in two weeks why the arrest of Meghna under the Special Powers Act 1974 should not be declared illegal.

The court also questioned the legality of her 30-day detention under the act.

banner of 'general students' over the banning of student politics on campus. At least 40 people were injured in the violence.

On Monday night, Kuet's syndicate held an emergency meeting and decided to reopen the residential halls on May 2 and resume academic activities on May 4. It also decided to suspend 37 students for their alleged involvement in the clashes on February 18 and 19.

The students began breaking the locks around 2:00pm yesterday, starting with Fazlul Haque Hall, followed by Amar Ekushey Hall, Dr M A Rashid Hall, and two others.

By the time this report was filed at around 8:30pm, around 250 students were staying in those dormitories.

The students have been staging a sit-in protest since Sunday, demanding the immediate reopening of the halls.

Yesterday, around 1:00pm, the students brought out a procession and requested teachers to unlock the halls. However, the teachers did not respond.

Following this, the students issued a call for the VC's resignation.

The announcement was made at a press briefing held at the Kuet Student Welfare Centre around 1:45pm, where a student representative read out a written statement.

The statement read: "As the VC has failed to ensure the safety of Kuet students, refused to take responsibility for his failure, disconnected internet and water supply, forced students out of the halls, encouraged filing of cases against protesting students, and expelled demonstrating students, we are shifting from our previous six point demand to a single point demand. The removal of the VC is now our only demand."

Kuet's Public Relations Officer Shaheduzzaman Sheikh told The Daily Star that the decision to suspend the 37 students was based on findings from a probe committee.

Regarding the breaking of locks, Kuet VC Mohammad Mashud told journalists, "Breaking into the halls is an illegal act. I will place the matter before the syndicate, which will decide the next course of action."

Following the February 18 clash, students began boycotting classes and launched a movement with a six-point demand that included the resignation of the VC, Pro VC, and the Director of Student Welfare, as well as a complete ban on student politics.

On February 23, students submitted their six-point demand in writing to the Chief Adviser Prof Muhammad Yunus. Later, on February 25, the Kuet syndicate decided to indefinitely suspend academic and administrative activities and ordered students to vacate the dormitories.

A three member committee was subsequently formed by the university administration to investigate the incident.

On April 10, a local resident filed a case with a court in Khulna against 22 named Kuet students and 15-20 unnamed individuals in connection with the February 18 violence.

DU, BUET, RUET STUDENTS EXPRESS SOLIDARITY

At Dhaka University, students yesterday expressed their solidarity with the students of Kuet. Bangladesh Gonotantrik Chhatra Sangsad (BGCS) held a press conference at around 2:00pm at the Madhur Canteen and demanded the resignation of Kuet VC within 24 hours.

Another section of students under the banner of "Dhaka University Stands with Kuet" held a protest programme at around 4:00pm at the Raju Memorial Sculpture with similar demands.

At Bangladesh University of Engineering and Technology (Buet), students formed a human chain in protest of the recent actions taken by the Kuet administration.

During the protest held at the Central Shaheed Minar on the Buet campus yesterday afternoon, students demanded the immediate withdrawal of the case against Kuet students, accountability from the administration, and punishment of those responsible for the violence.

At Rajshahi University of Engineering and Technology (Ruet), students formed a human chain yesterday afternoon protesting the recent events at Kuet.

The demonstration took place at 5:30pm in front of the Ruet Shaheed Minar, where students lacked slogans expressing solidarity with Kuet students and demanding justice.

"Let us forget the past year's sorrow and pain and move forward with a new conviction and new enthusiasm," he said.

Urging all to play an active role in protecting the country's culture and heritage and spreading those across the world, the chief adviser said that on this day, the country's people get the opportunity to showcase their tradition to the world in a festive atmosphere.

"Pahela Baishakh is the festival of our lives, the universal festival of Bangladesh. Wherever the Bangalees are in the world, today is a day of joy for all of us," he said.

At Baisakhi fairs across the country, Prof Yunus said entrepreneurs can showcase their creativity by making traditional shital pati, clay pots, pans, toys, hand fans, etc., marking this occasion.

He said various ethnic groups in the hills and plain lands are also celebrating Chaitra Sankranti and Bangla Nababarsha on a large scale this time.

The chief adviser hoped that the Bangla new year would usher in good days and joy for everyone.

Statistics (BBS).

Usually, the budget size increases every year, but the upcoming budget will be smaller than the previous year's original budget.

The budget size would be about Tk 7,90,000 crore, which is slightly less than the original budget for this fiscal year: Tk 7,97,000 crore.

The smaller budget is in line with the prescription of economists and the International Monetary Fund with a view to narrowing the budget deficit.

If the deficit increases due to low revenue collection as a result of the ongoing economic slowdown, the government would need to borrow from local banks, which can fuel inflation.

A 6.5 percent inflation target is achievable if the budget deficit remains below Tk 220,000 crore next fiscal year, Hussain said.

Finance ministry officials believe the budget deficit in the next fiscal year would be close to this amount.

Out of the total allocation, the size of the annual development programme would be Tk 2,30,000 crore.

In the original budget for this fiscal year, the allocation for ADP was Tk 2,65,000 crore, which was later revised down to Tk 2,16,000 crore.

Khuda Baksh said that the government would respond to the HC as required.

Asked about Law Adviser Prof Asif Nazrul's comment that the arrest process was not appropriate, the special assistant said, "We don't know the context in which the adviser made that statement. The question should be asked to him. He hasn't informed us of his reasoning. Responding based solely on your [the journalist's] question would lack context and may not be accurate."

Meghna, the winner of Miss Earth Bangladesh 2020, was picked up by detectives from her flat in Dhaka's Bashundhara R/A on Wednesday evening. Law enforcers produced her before a Dhaka court around 10:30pm the next day, and the court ordered that she be detained for 30 days. Meghna was sent to Kashimpur jail.

On Saturday, the chief of Dhaka Metropolitan Police's Detective Branch, which detained her, was removed from his post.

However, home adviser Lt Gen (retd) Jahangir Alam Chowdhury, who was also present at the briefing, said that the transfer of DB chief is not related to the issue involving Meghna.

He said, "The transfer of the DB chief has no connection with the Meghna Alam issue. This is a routine process. Officials come and go as part of regular duty rotation."

On Sunday, the High Court issued a rule asking the government authorities concerned to explain in two weeks why the arrest of Meghna under the Special Powers Act 1974 should not be declared illegal.

The court also questioned the legality of her 30-day detention under the act.

The move came as the government intensified efforts to recover money allegedly laundered by major corporate giants that thrived during the Awami League regime.

A total of $234 billion was siphoned off from Bangladesh between 2009 and 2023, according to an estimate by a government-commissioned white paper committee on the economy.

adding that to seize the assets abroad, cases will have to be filed in the respective countries' courts, and only after a verdict is given in those countries can the assets be officially seized.

The government formed 11 inter-agency probe teams comprising members of the Anti Corruption Commission, National Board of Revenue, and Criminal Investigation Department of police.
