Every day 30-40 Rohingyas coming

Border Guard Bangladesh has increased surveillance to prevent infiltration but has failed to stop their arrivals as the Rohingyas are using remote and hard-to-monitor routes. Brokers from Rohingya and Bangladeshi communities are helping them reach refugee camps in Teknaf and Ukhiya, said officials.

Rohingya camp leaders expressed concern over a possible fresh inflow in the coming days due to increasing oppression by the Arakan Army, which now controls over 80 percent of Rakhine state.

A Rohingya youth from Maungdaw, requesting anonymity, told this correspondent over the phone that many are fleeing from Rakhine to avoid being recruited in the Arakan Army to fight against the Junta military.

"We also want to fight for our country alongside the Arakan Army, but they must first ensure our citizenship rights in Myanmar," he said.

"Moreover, members of the Arakan Army frequently raid our homes and detain people on suspicion of their links with Arsa. They also loot valuables."

On Sunday, members of the Arakan Army, an armed group, carried out a raid in Sikdarpara village of northern Maungdaw. They forced villagers into an open field from 8:00am to 2:00pm, searched homes for links with Arakan Rohingya Salvation Army, another armed group, detained 10 people, and burnt five Rohingya houses.

"They are not directly telling us to leave, but their continuous repression is forcing us out of the area," the youth said.

Locals at Shahporir Dwip jetty in Teknaf said smoke from the burning houses was visible from Bangladesh.

Md Mizanur Rahman, refugee relief and repatriation commissioner, said 30 to 40 Rohingyas are entering the camps daily from Myanmar.

"We have already completed biometric registration of 1.18 lakh new arrivals since November 2023. Many are waiting for registration and have been given tokens for food assistance," he said, but declined to share the number of tokens issued, citing concerns over duplication and the inclusion of Bangladeshis.

These new arrivals have joined the nearly 12 lakh Rohingyas already residing in Bangladesh, majority of whom fled a brutal military crackdown in 2017.

Md Zubair, chairman of Arakan Rohingya Society for Peace and Human Rights, alleged that the Arakan Army is carrying out systemic ethnic cleansing. "About 3.5 lakh Rohingyas still live in Rakhine and many want to flee. The Arakan Army also extorts money from those trying to escape, for going to fields and doing business."

He warned that another major influx into Bangladesh is likely if the oppression continues.

Lt Col Ashiqur Rahman, commanding officer of BGB Battalion 2 in Teknaf, said that as strict surveillance along the Naf river and Bay of Bengal continues, the Rohingyas are crossing the border through remote hilly areas with the help of traffickers.

The traffickers are changing their strategies to bring Rohingyas into Bangladesh, so BGB is revising its prevention plan frequently, he said.

He added that many Rohingyas have been pushed back recently when they tried to enter Bangladesh illegally.

UNSC urges

to simulate protective measures in case of an air attack or disaster, with special focus on safeguarding citizens, reports TOI.

The Indian Air Force will hold large-scale military drills in Rajasthan - along the international border with Pakistan - a NOTAM, or Notice to Airmen, issued yesterday evening said. The drills will begin 9:30 pm today and end around five and a-half hours later.

Meanwhile, India has advanced the start date of four under-construction hydropower projects in the Kashmir region by months after suspending a water-sharing treaty with Pakistan that had slowed progress, according to an industry source and a government document.

The four projects are: Pakal Dul (1,000 MW), Kiru (624 MW), Kwar (540 MW) and Ratle (850 MW). All of them are on the Chenab River, whose waters are mainly meant for Pakistan but India is allowed to build run-of-water hydro projects without any significant storage.

Islamabad has said any "attempt to stop or divert the flow of water belonging to Pakistan ... will be considered as an act of war".

"We have witnessed changes in the river (Chenab) which are not natural at all," Kazim Pirzada, irrigation minister for Punjab province, told AFP.

Khaleda comes home, lights up BNP

Supporters chanted slogans such as "Khaleda Zia bhoy nai, rajpath chhari nai" (Khaleda Zia, fear not, we haven't left the streets), "Khaleda Ziar agomon, shubhechchha swagatom" (Welcome, Khaleda Zia), and "Tarique Zia birer besh e, ashbe phirey Bangladesh e" (Tarique Zia will return to Bangladesh like a hero).

Khaleda landed at HSI on a special air ambulance from the UK at 10:42am. Both air ambulances for her flights to and back from London were provided by the Emir of Qatar.

BNP Secretary General Mirza Fakhrul Islam Alamgir and members of the standing committee received her at the airport.

"In the current political climate, Khaleda Zia's return is a critical moment. We believe her presence will play a vital role in restoring democracy in the country," Fakhrul told journalists there.

Her motorcade left the airport around 11:20am, but the crowd was so overwhelming that it took 40 minutes to move just half a kilometre to the front of the airport's third terminal.

Despite heavy deployment of police, army and Rab personnel, the law enforcers struggled to contain the crowd and keep them off the highway.

Khaleda's vehicle, flanked by party loyalists, carried only two others: her daughters-in-law, Zubaida Rahman and Syeda Sharmila Rahman, widow of Arafat Rahman Koko.

The journey to her Gulshan residence "Firoza" took over two hours. For about an hour from 11:00am, the expressway in front of the airport was blocked by security forces, halting traffic on both sides of the road up to Banani.

Near Firoza, more supporters had gathered, showering Khaleda's car with flowers as it entered the gate.

While she typically sits in the rear seat, she was seated in front this time. Zubaida and Sharmila accompanied her in the back. Upon arrival, they helped her into the house.

Before getting off the car, Khaleda waved to her party supporters.

At home, she was welcomed by family members, including her sister Selima Rahman, younger brother Shamim Iskandar, his wife Kaniz Fatema, and Zubaida's elder sister Shahina Zaman.

Earlier in the day, the road in front of Firoza had been closed to vehicular traffic and pedestrian access restricted. A tight security perimeter had been established by law enforcement.

Firoza, surrounded by high walls, features a security room at the entrance manned by police and the Chairperson's Security Force (CSF) on rotation.

As the gate was shut behind her upon entering, Mirza Fakhrul addressed the crowd with a handheld microphone, urging them to leave. "Doctors have advised madam [Khaleda] to take complete rest. She needs at least eight hours of uninterrupted sleep. Please avoid chanting slogans or crowding outside her house."

Her personal physician and BNP Standing Committee member AZM Zahid Hossain, who flew back from London with her, said Khaleda had expressed gratitude to everyone who had sent their well wishes. "After medical treatment, Khaleda Zia is physically well. She is mentally stable."

Despite the request, the street remained crowded for hours with supporters hoping to catch a glimpse of their leader.

Khaleda's return was celebrated within the party as a symbolic resurgence.

BNP Standing Committee Member Salahuddin Ahmed told The Daily Star, "This is a joyous moment for us and the entire nation. Her presence will add strength and courage to the path of democratic advancement. We will receive her direct guidance on the next steps in democratic politics."

Anjuman Banu, a Khulna Mohila Dal leader, said, "I couldn't see her face because of the crowd. It was painful, but also empowering. Her return gives us strength."

Rezaul Karim, who came from Sherpur's Nalitabari, said, "Her return is a strong message to all those who've spread propaganda against the BNP."

ZUBAIDA RETURNS AFTER 17YRS
While Khaleda's return was momentous for the BNP, Zubaida's was equally significant.

Zubaida, her husband and daughter Zaima Rahman had been in exile in London for 17 years.

Speaking outside Firoza, Zahid Hossain said the party's acting chairman will also return to Bangladesh soon. "Zubaida Rahman has come back today [yesterday]. Zaima Rahman has joined a political programme in America. The day is not far off when our acting chairman will lead the democratic

SC stays HC bail order

challenging the High Court order.

Speaking to The Daily Star, Additional Attorney General Aneek R Haque said Chinmoy's bail would remain stayed until the state files a leave-to-appeal petition against the HC verdict.

He added that the state would file the petition with the Appellate Division after receiving the full text of the HC judgment.

Lawyers MK Rahman, ZI Khan Panna, Anup Kumar Saha, Bivash Chandra Biswas and Prahlad Debnath represented Chinmoy during yesterday's hearing.

On April 30, the High Court granted bail to Chinmoy, who has been in custody in the sedition case since November.

On October 31 last year, Firoz Khan, former general secretary of Chattogram's Mohora ward BNP, filed the case with Kotwali Police Station, accusing Chinmoy and 18 others of disrespecting the national flag during a rally in the port city's New Market area six days earlier.

Chinmoy was arrested in the capital on November 25, and the following day a Chattogram court rejected his bail petition and sent him to jail.

When he was produced before the court that day (November 26), a clash broke out among his followers, police and lawyers. Saiful Islam Ali, a lawyer, was hacked to death in the court area. Chinmoy was shown arrested in the case filed for Saiful's murder on May 5.

In another development yesterday, Chinmoy was shown arrested by a Chattogram court in four more cases filed with Kotwali Police Station over inciting clashes, vandalism and attacks on cops on the court premises on November 26 last year.

Chattogram Metropolitan Magistrate SM Alauddin Mahmud passed the order after the investigating officers of the cases filed applications with the court to show him arrested in the cases.

Due to security concerns, the hearing was held virtually around 10:00am.

Assistant Public Prosecutor of the Metro Sessions Court, Advocate Raihanul Wazed Chowdhury, confirmed the development to The Daily Star.

He told reporters, "Police filed three cases and Ali's brother filed another case over vandalism on the court premises, attacks on police and general people; crude bomb explosions; and obstructing police from discharging duties during the clashes on November 26."

The investigating officers of the respective cases submitted petitions to show Chinmoy arrested, he said.
