

Shyamasundari canal in peril

Once vital, the waterbody suffers from pollution, encroachment

S DILIP ROY, Lalmonirhat

Once a lifeline for local fishermen, the Shyamasundari canal in Rangpur city now lies on its deathbed, choked by pollution.

Stretching 16 kilometres in its prime, the canal was once a vibrant waterway with clear waters and an abundant fish population. Today, it is a shadow of its former self, its water now pitch-black and foul-smelling due to the unchecked discharge of household and sewage waste directly into it.

Rampant encroachment has also caused the canal to shrink drastically, from a width of 60-120 feet to a mere 15 feet.

The canal was excavated in 1890 under the patronage of Maharaja Janaki Ballav Sen. Once serving as the city's main drainage channel and adding to the city's scenic beauty, it has now been abandoned to years of encroachment, pollution, and poor urban planning.

Illegal structures, including houses and shops, have sprung up along both banks, while sewage lines discharge wastewater directly into the canal. Household waste and plastic garbage are thrown in every day, further choking its flow. The water now emits an unbearable stench, while the city struggles with frequent waterlogging as the canal can no longer drain excess water.

"Even a few years ago, the canal's water was somewhat clear. People used to bathe in it and use its water for household purposes. But now, it is so filthy that the water can't be used for anything. Fish can no longer survive in it. If you cast a net, you won't find any fish," said Khobir Uddin, 65, a resident of the Modern area.

Khalilur Rahman, 60, echoed him.

Palash Kanti Nag, a local environmental activist, stressed the need for dredging to save the canal.

Contacted, Robiul Islam, executive engineer of the Water Development Board in Rangpur, said, "The government has allocated Tk 15 crore to restore the canal. Dredging will begin soon, and both banks will be planted with trees to restore its beauty."

Mother, two children found dead in house

OUR CORRESPONDENT, Manikganj

A woman and her two children were found dead in their rented flat at West Bandutia in Manikganj yesterday.

The deceased are Shikha Akhter, 29, her son Arafat Islam Alvi, 9, and daughter Saifa Akter, 2. Police recovered the bodies after neighbours reported no response from inside the flat.

Manikganj Superintendent of Police Mosammat Yasmin Khatun said aluminum phosphide was found at the scene, suggesting the mother might have poisoned the children before taking her own life. The exact cause will be confirmed after autopsies.

Shikha's husband Shahin Ahmed, 42, left for Malaysia two months ago, said locals.

His uncle Aman Ansari said Shahin had divorced his first wife before marrying Shikha and had moved her and the children into the flat before his departure.

Neighbour Alamgir Hossain said he called 999 after repeated knocks by him and the flat owner went unanswered, leading to the discovery.

Irregularities alleged in Tk 5.24cr road project

SOHRAB HOSSAIN, Patuakhali

Widespread irregularities have been alleged in the construction of a 2.5-kilometre road from Uttar Kajir Hawla Mohsenia Dakhil Madrasa to Khalgora Bazar in Rangabali upazila of Patuakhali.

Residents have complained that muddy sand and stones are being mixed with clotted cement during the casting for the project, which is being implemented by the Local Government Engineering Department.

According to the upazila engineer's office, the road is being built under the Important Upazila and Union Road Widening and Strengthening project in the 2023-24 fiscal year.

Tenders were invited for the construction of a 2.5km RCC road from Kachiabunia (Khalgora) Launch Ghat Bazar to Baherchar Bazar (Uttar Kajir Hawla Mohsenia Madrasa). Rajshahi-based Barendra Construction Limited secured the contract for Tk 5.24 crore and began work late last year.

During an on-site visit, this correspondent found casting underway with muddy sand and stones being fed directly into the mixing machine, alongside hardened cement.

Contractor's representative Ruhul Amin, who rushed to the site upon noticing media presence, admitted that some cement had clotted but claimed it was due to rain.

The work is being implemented by Jewel Molla, a resident of Dashmina upazila, instead of the original contracting firm.

Jewel admitted there were some difficulties, saying, "The stones were stored in a place that was flooded by tidal water. We had no alternative space, which caused the problem. But we are following the design, and no irregularities are taking place."

Rangabali Upazila Engineer Md Habibur Rahman said the road project began last year and, so far, 45 percent progress had been made, including 600 metres of RCC casting.

"The contractor was supposed to inform us before starting the casting, but on Monday they began without notice. Upon hearing this, I sent my representative to stop the work. We will test the materials before allowing them to continue," he said.

Rangabali UNO Rajib Das Purkayastha said, "I have already instructed the upazila engineer to speak with the contractor and warn them. No irregularities in development works will be tolerated."

Fakhrul dismisses Ei Samay interview had sought 30 seats from the BNP for the upcoming national election, but the BNP showed "little interest."

The report further cited him as saying, "We offered a much smaller number, which they found unacceptable. I assure you:

we will not allow Jamaat to overstep its bounds. We've unnecessarily given them more priority than they deserve as a political force."

In a statement issued yesterday, Jamaat Secretary General Mia Golam Porwar said, "It is difficult for us to believe that such completely false, disrespectful, and vengeful comments have been made by a senior politician like Mirza Fakhrul Islam Alamgir. The comments could not be further from the truth and lack decency. If these comments are indeed his, then we are forced to protest and condemn them."

On BNP's official Facebook page, the party reiterated Fakhrul's denial, "The remarks attributed to him in the interview published in the Indian newspaper Ei Samay were never made by him."

Meanwhile, Ei Samay posted two photocards on its verified Facebook page, captioned, "At the Gulshan office of Khaleda Zia, chairperson of BNP, the largest political party in Bangladesh at this moment. Anamitra Chatterjee with BNP Secretary General Mirza Fakhrul Islam Alamgir on the 4th of this month."

on rainy days," said Nazmul Huda, senior assistant teacher at Barwari High School.

Contacted, Md Shoaib Imran, upazila engineer of Netrokona Sadar, said, "Due to insufficient allocations, the road could not be properly renovated in previous years. Some temporary repairs were made but did not last due to the rains. A proposal has been submitted for rebuilding and widening the road."

Md Rafiqul Islam, senior assistant engineer at Netrokona LGED, said 2 km of the 13.9-km road has been repaired.

"A project proposal seeking a higher allocation has been sent under RTP-3 to repair the remaining portion. Once funds are allocated, the work will proceed."

Md Abdullah Al Mahmud Jaman, deputy commissioner of Netrokona, said, "The issue will be raised at the next district coordination meeting. We will work with LGED to ensure quick repair work. I will personally monitor the progress."

Mostakur

"Perhaps we cannot solve everything in a year, but we will prepare a roadmap showing how many years it will take and seek approval from the administration," he added.

"Whenever a party comes to power, its student wing wants to keep Rucsu shut. But it is the right of students to have it regularly, as it is a platform for taking initiatives to solve their problems. We will work to ensure that Rucsu elections become regular," said Mostakur, president of Shibir's RU unit.

On the election front, he alleged that "a group" wants to foil the election, which does not want students to be empowered. "We must remain alert," he said.

Mostakur concluded, "If elected, I will not be VP of Chhatra Shibir but of all students. My highest priority will be Rucsu, and I look forward to working with all."
