

FARMERS RUSH TO SALVAGE CROPS

Following heavy downpour on Saturday, farmers in Gobindaganj ventured into their flooded farmlands early in the morning as the sun rose above the horizon. They delicately harvested as much of the crop that could be saved from the grips of nature's wrath. Saturday's rain severely flooded large swatches of farmland in Gobindaganj, with similar situations observed in areas like Chapainawabganj, Naogaon, Natore, and Rajshahi, inset. As climate change continues to alter rain patterns even late into the year, farmers across the country are concerned about adapting to a continually changing foe. The photos were taken yesterday morning.

Bodies of man, woman found in Dhaka warehouse

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

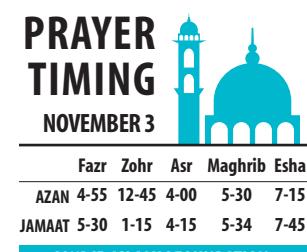

Police recovered the decomposed bodies of a man and a woman from a warehouse located on the ground floor of a house in Dhaka's Uttar Badda yesterday morning.

A police official said some residents had noticed a foul smell for the past few days and decided to search the warehouse, where they found the bodies.

The bodies have been sent to the Dhaka Medical College morgue for autopsy.

Habibur Rahman, officer-in-charge of Badda Police Station, said the warehouse had been locked from the outside.

As the bodies were badly decomposed, DNA samples will be collected to confirm their identities, the OC added.

Biswa Ijtema after national election

UNB, Dhaka

Religious Affairs Adviser Dr AFM Khalid Hossain yesterday said Biswa Ijtema will be held in February after the national election.

The adviser came up with the information while talking to reporters after a meeting with the representatives of the two factions of the Tabligh Jamaat at the Secretariat.

The exact date of the Ijtema would be finalised later in consultation with both sides, said the adviser.

Home Affairs Adviser Lt Gen (retd) Jahangir Alam, Industries Adviser Adilur Rahman Khan and Senior Secretary to the Home Ministry Nasimul Ghani were present at the meeting.

MFC calls for protection of journos

DIPLOMATIC CORRESPONDENT

The diplomatic network of the Media Freedom Coalition (MFC) in Bangladesh has expressed concern over the growing threats of online violence that disproportionately targets female journalists and media workers.

It also called for ensuring the protection of journalists and media workers, emphasising the safety and fundamental rights demanded by their profession.

In a statement issued yesterday to mark the 11th global anniversary of the International Day to End Impunity for Crimes against Journalists, the coalition stressed the need to continue advancing gender equality within the media landscape and to dismantle barriers that perpetuate discrimination and violence.

The members of the network -- Australia, Canada, Denmark, Switzerland, France, Germany, Italy, Japan, Norway, Sweden, the US, and the UK -- jointly issued the statement.

Stranded in Sudan

Moynul returns home with help of army, foreign ministry after 20 years

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

After nearly two decades of isolation in war-torn Sudan, Bangladeshi national Mohammad Moynul Haque has finally returned home with the assistance of the Bangladesh Army.

He landed in Dhaka yesterday and was reunited with his family at the airport. According to a social media post from the Bangladesh Army, Haque, a contractor, moved to Khartoum, Sudan, in 2006 for work. The outbreak of civil war trapped him in the country for years. He fled to the Abyei region for safety, but in the process, lost all vital documents, including his passport.

In May 2025, a Bangladesh Army patrol unit deployed under the United Nations Interim Security Force for Abyei found Haque. The army contacted his family in Bangladesh and formally requested his repatriation through Army Headquarters.

The request was forwarded to the foreign ministry, which coordinated with the Bangladesh embassy in Ethiopia. On August 15, the embassy issued a "travel permit", arranged airfare, and provided financial assistance for Haque.

On October 29, under army supervision, Haque was flown from Abyei to Juba, South Sudan, and from there boarded an Ethiopian Airlines flight to Dhaka.
