

‘Someone please take care of her’

Newborn abandoned at Dinajpur Medical College Hospital with a note

MD QUAMRUL ISLAM RUBAYAT

A newborn was found abandoned on a bed at the children's ward of Dinajpur Medical College Hospital on Thursday evening, with a handwritten note left inside a bag.

According to hospital sources, the baby was admitted to the ward around 6:00pm on Thursday.

Speaking to The Daily Star yesterday, Intern Doctor Golam Ahad, who was on duty at the time of admission, said a couple aged around 50 came to the ward after identifying themselves as the baby's maternal grandparents. They requested the admission of the newborn to the hospital.

"When I asked about the baby's mother, they said she was downstairs. I told them to bring her up. They went out, but never returned. After a while, others noticed the baby alone on a bed outside the children's ward and informed us," said the doctor.

Despite an extensive search, neither the baby's mother nor any of her alleged relatives could be found.

A bag was left beside the bed containing some medicine, diapers, baby clothes, and a note presumably written by the mother.

The note read: "I am a Muslim. I am a helpless woman. Due to unavoidable circumstances, I am leaving my baby here. Please, someone take care of her. Date of birth: 04-11-2025, Tuesday. These are all her medicines. I am a woman of the Muslim community."

Dr Ahad said the baby was born prematurely, but was in a stable condition now. "The baby is receiving phototherapy [treatment using UV light] and is being kept warm. Other mothers in the ward are nursing her."

Since the news first spread, many approached the hospital yesterday, expressing interest in adopting the baby.

The hospital authorities said they would take a decision after consulting with all departments and authorities concerned.

Two fishermen arrange their hilsa catch at dawn after a night of fishing in the Padma River. Known for its quality, Padma hilsa usually sells at a high price, although at this time of year most are bought directly by locals for personal consumption. The photo was taken near the Mahishbari area of Godagari upazila in Rajshahi yesterday.

Croplands shrink amid rising salinity in Bagerhat

Farmers turn to shrimp farming as fertile land becoming saline

PARTHA CHAKRABORTTY, Bagerhat

The coastal district of Bagerhat has undergone a sweeping transformation over the past decade. The glistening wetlands that once stretched as golden paddy fields are now widely used for shrimp farming due to a sharp rise in water salinity.

In Rampal, Mongla, Morrelganj and parts of Bagerhat Sadar, vast stretches of cropland once used for paddy cultivation have been converted into aquaculture ponds.

While the boom in shrimp farming has brought prosperity for large leaseholders and investors through lucrative export markets, most small farmers and day labourers have faced displacement and rising debts, as their farmlands can no longer support crops because of high salinity.

Mizanur Rahaman, 39, in Morrelganj upazila, said he now cultivates paddy on 2.5 bighas of land, while the remaining 5 bighas have been turned into shrimp ponds.

Kamrul Dihadar, 35, of the same upazila, said he stopped paddy cultivation altogether and converted his 5-bigha land into a shrimp enclosure.

"As saline water crept inland from neighbouring waterbodies, thousands of local paddy farmers saw their harvests wither. Over the years, many have been forced to lease out their land to shrimp entrepreneurs for a fraction of its former value," said a farmer of Taligati village.

A 2024 survey by the Soil Resource Development Institute in Khulna, with data from the Department of Agricultural Extension in Bagerhat, found that salinity levels in parts of the district nearly doubled over the last decade.

The Pashur, Daratana, Panguchi and Ghashiakhali rivers now register alarming salinity levels of 15-30 decisiemens per metre during the dry months of March and April, several times higher than what paddy or most vegetables can tolerate.

In 2020, Bagerhat's total agricultural area was 1,84,841 hectares. By 2024, total farmland had declined to 1,60,861 hectares.

Noor Alam Sheikh, Khulna divisional coordinator of Dhoritri Rokhkhay Amra, said, "Expansion of shrimp farming, introduced in the 1980s, has turned into a catastrophe for the agricultural environment and public health. While shrimp exports generate only Tk 3,000-4,000 crore in foreign currency, the resulting damage -- the social cost to agriculture, the environment and public health -- is estimated to be as high as Tk 50,000 crore."

"Given this imbalance, shrimp farming should either be halted or strictly managed under a proper plan," he said.

According to fisheries department data, 52,551 hectares of land in Bagerhat are now under Bagda shrimp farming, yielding 20,940 tonnes this season. Another 19,773.3 hectares are used for Galda prawn farming, yielding 19,716.3 tonnes.

Meanwhile, river salinity in parts of Bagerhat, including Mongla and Rampal, now averages around 5-7 parts per thousand, reflecting the intrusion of saline water inland.

Md Motahar Hossain, deputy director of the Department of Agricultural Extension in Bagerhat, said salinity intrusion now begins as early as November, rather than January, severely affecting crops by March-April.

He said officials are promoting salt-tolerant crop varieties and converting single-crop fields to double-cropping systems to help farmers maintain output despite shrinking farmland.

Raj Kumar Biswas, district fisheries officer in Bagerhat, said, "It is crucial to limit salinity and improve water management. Officials are working on measures to control the problem."

Two killed, seven hurt in Bagerhat road accident

OUR CORRESPONDENT, Bagerhat

Two people were killed and seven others injured when a bus plunged into a roadside ditch after hitting a motorcycle on the Khulna-Mongla highway in Bagerhat's Rampal upazila yesterday.

The identities of the victims could not be known immediately.

Md Emran Hossain, senior station officer of Mongla EPZ Fire Service, said the accident occurred around noon in the Tetulia Bridge area. The injured were taken to Jhunjhuniya Hospital in Rampal upazila.

Emran added that the motorcycle riders were tourists travelling to Mongla to visit the Sundarbans.

Md Jafar Ahmed, officer-in-charge of Katakhal Highway Police Station, said two passengers of the bus died on the spot, and seven others including the bike riders were injured. OC Jafar said, "The bodies have been recovered and sent to Rampal Upazila Health Complex."

Political culture lacks

"Debate teaches us to be inspired by the values of honesty, justice, humanity, and the belief that all individuals are equal regardless of race, religion, class, or profession. Alongside presenting one's own opinions and arguments, having the patience and mindset to listen to others and expressing one's views rationally are recognised values of debate," Iftekharuzzaman said.

"Unfortunately, our society, state, and political sphere suffer from a stark deficiency of these fundamental principles. To ensure good governance and move the country forward, the young generation must continue to uphold and practice these values."

Mentioning that the competition is a part of TIB's nationwide anti-corruption movement, he said, "We must stand firm against corruption, and in this struggle, the youth are our inspiration."

This year's competition made it mandatory for each team and judging panel to include at least one female participant.

"As a precondition for women's empowerment, there is no alternative to ensuring women's equal participation in decision-making and implementation within society, the state, and the family," he said.

The three-day event (November 6-8), organised by TIB and held at the CCDB Hope Center in Savar, has drawn 32 debating teams from public and private universities across the country, said a TIB press release.

The champion team will receive Tk 50,000, the runner-up Tk 30,000, and the best debater Tk 10,000. The top eight teams will qualify directly for next year's contest.

SM Sultan museum lies

Tourists visit Narail to see the landscapes that inspired Sultan's art. Many of them have expressed frustration over the poor facilities.

Karima Akhter, a college student from Gopalganj, said, "It's my first time visiting the SM Sultan museum. His paintings are truly mesmerising, and the natural surroundings are beautiful. However, the site needs renovation to cater to visitors."

Contacted, Narail Deputy Commissioner and chairperson of the Sultan Foundation, Sharmin Akhter Jahan, said, "We have previously sent proposals to the ministry concerned for renovating the museum several times, and submitted all necessary documents, including those related to land acquisition for expanding the museum and the plan to make the ghat attractive. Work will begin once the ministry gives approval."

Born on August 10, 1924, in Machimdia village of Narail, Sheikh Mohammed Sultan, popularly known as SM Sultan, rose to prominence for his bold and compassionate portrayal of rural Bengal and its hardworking people in his artworks.

Affectionately known as "Lal Mia of the Chitra riverbank", Sultan received the Ekushey Padak in 1982 and the Independence Award in 1993.

He passed away on October 10, 1994, and was laid to rest beside the Chitra River -- now the grounds of the SM Sultan Memorial Museum -- the very landscape that inspired his finest works.

Dengue cases

"Many wait until their condition becomes critical. Others are referred from different districts. They often deteriorate on the way because if fluids are not administered properly during those first few hours, saving them becomes impossible," he said.

"Sometimes a patient starts the journey in pre-shock, but by the time they reach us after five or six hours, they are already in full shock. When they arrive at the emergency ward, there is very little we can do," he added.

"This is one reason why deaths are highest in Dhaka South City Corporation -- critically ill patients from different districts are referred here," he pointed out.

He emphasised that patients should always be stabilised before referral. "Recover from shock first, then send the patient to Dhaka," he advised.

Morshed Jahan, senior staff nurse at the women's dengue ward of Suhrawardy hospital, said they have been facing continuous pressure from dengue patients since last month.

"The number of patients in the ward was 65 on Thursday morning, but it came down to 48 after 22 patients were released later in the day -- though the beds may fill up again shortly," she said.

"To reduce the pressure, the authorities have recently opened another 18-bed dengue ward on another floor."
