

Uncertainty lingers on as parties dig in

Amid a deepening impasse, major political parties yesterday hardened their stances on the timing of a referendum on the reforms, the implementation order for the July charter, and the fate of dissenting notes. With the seven-day deadline for the parties to reach a consensus having expired on Monday, the government said it would announce its decision on the issues on Thursday. As the clock ticks down, the nation watches – unsure whether a resolution or rupture lies ahead.

"We urge the government to take cautious and responsible steps in this regard," BNP Standing Committee member Khandaker Mosharraf Hossain said at a press briefing at the party chairperson's Gulshan office yesterday.

The briefing was held to convey the outcomes of the party's Standing Committee meeting, chaired by acting chairman Tarique Rahman on Monday night. The meeting discussed the legal framework for implementing the charter.

At the meeting, party leaders said that if the government took any decision in favour of Jamaat-e-Islami under pressure, the BNP would not accept it. The Daily Star has learnt from people involved in the proceedings.

Top leaders of the eight parties issued the warning at a rally at Dhaka's Paltan intersection in the afternoon.

Later, they met at the central office of Islami Andolon Bangladesh to decide their next course of action.

According to a press release issued by Islami Andolon, the parties expressed concern over the government's failure to make a decision regarding the legal recognition of the July charter and the holding of a referendum before the election.

The meeting decided to seek an appointment with Chief Adviser Prof Muhammad Yunus today (Wednesday) to discuss the matter. If the government still does not come up with a decision after their meeting with Yunus, they will be forced to announce tougher programmes the same day, the press release added.

Earlier at the rally, some leaders said if the demands were not met, they would lay siege to the chief adviser's official residence Jamuna.

4 SENSATIONAL MURDERS Ctg police yet to make headway

FM MIZANUR RAHAMAN

A recent spate of shootings and murders has shaken the port city, yet there has been little visible action from the Chattogram Metropolitan Police.

In the majority of these cases, police have yet to apprehend any of the main gunmen or recover the murder weapons, confirm police sources.

As of yet, there has been no real headway in at least four major public shootings.

Several police officials, requesting anonymity, admitted that in two of these incidents, the victims were listed criminals themselves – leading to a lack of interest from law enforcement.

AKBAR MURDER CASE

On May 25, Md Akbar, alias "Dhakaiya Akbar", a known criminal from the port city's Bayezid area, was shot in broad daylight at Patenga in front of bystanders. He died a day later at Chattogram Medical College Hospital. Police said he had 10 cases against him, including murder, arms, and extortion charges.

Akbar reportedly had a long-standing feud with another notorious Bayezid-based criminal, Sazzad Hossain, alias "Chhoto Sazzad". Before his death, Akbar had posted several videos on Facebook from his account while criticising Sazzad Ali alias "Boro Sazzad" – a fugitive accused in the sensational "Eight-Murder Case" – and his Detectives claimed to have detained the gunmen who on Monday, in full view of the public, shot dead top-listed criminal Tariq Saif Mamun, 55, in front of the Dhaka National Medical Institute Hospital.

Based on intelligence, a team from the Detective Branch (DB) of police conducted raids yesterday and apprehended five suspects, including the shooter duo believed to be directly involved with the killing, according to DB sources.

A senior DB official present during the raid said the shooter duo have been primarily identified as Faruk and Robin.

After the killing, the two gunmen first fled to Sylhet, then to Moulvibazar in an attempt to cross the border – but both efforts failed. Detectives later tracked them down and detained them in the region.

Thousands of activists began gathering in the capital's Purana Paltan area around 1:00pm yesterday for a joint rally of eight like-minded parties, including Jamaat-e-Islami and Islami Andolan Bangladesh, demanding legal recognition of the July charter, a referendum on reforms before the next election, and the introduction of a proportional representation system in parliament.

close accomplice, Chhoto Sazzad.

Police suspect the killing was a result of internal gang rivalry.

Akbar's family filed a case with Patenga Police Station against 11 individuals. Following the incident, Rab apprehended two relatives of Boro Sazzad – his nephew Alvin and his brother Osman Ali – and handed them over to the police. However, progress on the investigation appears to have since slowed.

Investigating Officer Amitabh Das, sub-inspector of Patenga Police Station, said, "Four accused have been arrested so far; two are currently out on bail. The weapon used has not been recovered."

Akbar was shot twice at close range with a pistol, the IO said, adding that the police believe the murder stemmed from a turf war.

When asked why the gunmen had not been identified, he replied, "There's no CCTV footage of the shooting. We've recorded eyewitness statements and are continuing efforts to catch the remaining accused."

SARWAR MURDER CASE

It has been almost a week, and yet the police are in the dark about the murder of high-profile gangster Sarwar Hossain, alias Babla, on November 5. He was shot dead in the city's Chalitatali area while accompanying BNP-nominated candidate Ershad Ullah during election campaigning for the Chattogram-8 constituency.

Investigators have yet to find any clue about who carried out the attack or how they escaped.

Sarwar's father, Abdul Kader, filed a case with Bayezid Bostami Police Station naming 22 people as accused. Police have arrested four of them so far, but the key suspects – including Mohammad Raihan and Mobarak Hossain – remain at large, and the weapon used has not been recovered.

The victim's brother, Alamgir, told The Daily Star "I saw my brother being shot right in front of my eyes. The attackers fired multiple rounds and fled openly without any resistance from law enforcement."

"There's no sense of security here. We're living in fear after losing him," said a visibly shaken Alamgir.
