OUR CORRESPONDENT, Pabna

At least 20 people were injured as BNP and Jamaat activists clashed over election campaigning at Char Gargari village in Shahpur union of Pabna's Ishwardi upazila yesterday.

Each side blamed the other for the attack. In protest, Jamaat men held a rally in the area last night.

Tension has been prevailing in Ishwardi as the two groups remained positioned against each other.

Police and locals said the clash broke out around 4:30pm when Jamaat-backed Pabna-4 candidate Abu Taleb Mondol went to Char Gargari for campaigning and BNP activists allegedly attacked them without warning, triggering an hour-long clash.

At least 20 people from both sides were injured, and seven were admitted to Ishwardi Upazila Health Complex.

Abu Taleb alleged that BNP men carried out the attack.

However, BNP-nominated candidate Habibur Rahman Habib told journalists that villagers chased the Jamaat men as they were

After losing her home in the Korail slum fire, Minara Begum feeding bread to her grandchildren inside a makeshift shelter, stitched together with salvaged clothes, built exactly where their house once stood. With the children's mothers out working in people's homes, the family -- having lost everything -- is now trying to survive on whatever little they have left. The photo was taken yesterday.

KORAIL SLUM Piecing back life after fire

SHAHEEN MOLLAH and MUNTAKIM SAAD

As the afternoon sun beat down on the charred remains of Korail yesterday, one of Dhaka's largest and most crowded slums, Shukur Ali sat quietly with his wife, children and grandson amid the dust and twisted iron sheets that once sheltered their home.

The fire that tore through the settlement on Tuesday left them homeless.

More than 1,300 homes were reduced to ashes, leaving nearly 6,000 residents without shelter in a slum that is home to nearly 1.50 lakh people. The flames devoured everything in their path: homes, shops and part of a mosque.

For Shukur Ali, the loss is deeply personal. "I came here in 1992 with my parents," he said. "My father built two rooms and set up a small shop. This land is all we have. If we lose it, where will we go in our old age?"

He spent yesterday afternoon clearing debris. He said debt of around Tk 60,000 from a previous fire in 2017 still burdens him.

Meanwhile, aid has been limited. BRAC provided a small cash grant and warm clothing, while neighbours shared meals as families coped without kitchens or clean water.

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

BNP Chairperson and former prime minister Khaleda Zia was shifted to the coronary care unit (CCU) at the capital's Evercare Hospital yesterday, where she is being treated for lung and heart infections.

"Pneumonia and lung infection are still in a stable condition. She was mainly shifted to the CCU so that if any other parameter goes up or down, proper care can be taken immediately. After moving her to the CCU, her physical condition has remained stable," Dr Rafiqul Islam, health affairs secretary of the BNP, told this newspaper last night.

He said Khaleda is receiving treatment there for closer monitoring and observation. "Doctors and nurses are providing round-the-clock care."

Party sources said Khaleda is under the supervision of a medical board that includes both local and foreign specialists. Since her admission, she had been receiving treatment in a cabin.

Khaleda, 80, has long suffered from multiple health complications, including heart, liver and kidney

MEMORY CARD SCANDAL Five years on, culprits remain untouched

MOHAMMAD SUMAN, Chattogram

Five years after the Anti-Corruption Commission launched an investigation into the illegal release of banned memory cards, those responsible for importing and releasing the goods remain unaccountable.

officers of the Chief Controller of Imports and Exports (CCIE).

Case documents show that Mamun brought 2.1 lakh prohibited memory cards through Dhaka airport and later removed them from the warehouse, allegedly with support from two customs officials.

- » Banned goods worth Tk 6.32cr cleared for Tk 31.7 lakh
- » Then Dhaka customs commissioner released the items
- » ACC never questioned him
- » ACC dropped charges against 4 citing lack of evidence
- » Probe reopens to identify culprits

The stock-lot goods, valued at Tk 6.32 crore, were cleared through Dhaka Customs House for just Tk 31.7 lakh in duty and fine. But the real concern is not the money, but how the system was manipulated first to clear the banned products and then to shield the suspects.

In the last five years, three investigating officers have come and gone, yet the probe remains inconclusive. The current IO, ACC Deputy Director Md Asaduzzaman, took charge in October this year. He said he is unable to comment at this stage.

Earlier in 2023, the ACC pressed charges against seven individuals -- importer Mamun Howlader, two customs officials, and four

The four CCIE officials -- Assistant Controllers Mamun Iftekhar Rahman and Fatema Khatun, Deputy Controller Moniruzzaman Khan, and Controller Awlad Hossain -- were accused of issuing the clearance permit for the items.

But the immediate-past ACC investigation officer, Deputy Director Subel Ahmed, relieved the four from the case, citing a lack of evidence. However, the ACC rejected the report over "serious procedural flaws" because he failed to identify those responsible.

CCIE officials accused in the case say the ACC neither questioned nor investigated the customs officials who allowed the consignment

THE FOREST FORAGER

A slender Northern Palm Squirrel nibbles on a fig as it rests on a tree branch along Chattogram city's CRB road. Found across South Asia in gardens, orchards and evergreen forests, it feeds on fruits, nuts, seeds and the occasional insect, helping disperse seeds that keep woodlands alive. Females nest in tree hollows lined with leaves, raising litters of two to four young who venture out after a few weeks. Threatened mainly by habitat loss, this tiny forager remains a vital thread in the forest's tapestry.
