it. However, this work can't be implemented by the commission alone. Cooperation from all stakeholders in the election will be needed."

Sanaullah said this time there will be two votes, so everyone needs to be more sensitive about time.

"In the mock voting, it was seen that a voter is taking an average of 3 minutes 52 seconds. Those who vote without reading the ballot are taking 2 minutes. And those who read the ballot before voting are taking 7-8 minutes. We know this reality. The number of centres will not increase, nor will the number of booths. We need to make our voting management smarter," he said.

He added, "We are introducing a QR code system so that fake journalists cannot enter anywhere using cards."

Prosecution details harrowing accounts directors general of Rapid Action Battalion Benazir Ahmed, M Khurshid Hossain, and Harun ar Rashid, and Lt Col (Retd) Muhammad Khairul Islam.

The state defence counsels are Md Amir Hossain, Hassan Imam, and Sujad Miah. Amir will replace Supreme Court senior lawyer ZI Khan Panna, who had earlier shown interest in representing Hasina but later withdrew.

Tajul told the tribunal that enforced disappearances had been "institutionalised" during the Awami League's 15-year rule, alleging DGF, Rab, DB, CTTC, NSI, and BGB units were involved. Dissidents were tracked through national monitoring systems, taken at night, and then held in joint interrogation cells and Rab's TFI cells. Many bodies, he said, were later recovered from forests, rivers, the Sundarbans, and Barguna's Char Duani.

He described the TFI cell as a secret detention site inside the Rab-1 compound in Uttara -- a two-storey block with 29 cells, including tiny "grave cells," 10x3-ft rooms and 3x3-ft compartments where detainees were kept in inhumane conditions.

The facility allegedly contained soundproof torture rooms, an electric rotating chair, steel restraints, whips, and devices for genital electrocution. Photographs of mutilated bodies were hung on the walls, and victims were threatened with a similar fate.

Meanwhile, rejecting the plea for virtual appearance of the accused army officers in custody, the tribunal chair, Justice Md Golam Mortuza Mozumder, commented: "Where former chief justice, senior judges, former secretaries, and ministers have appeared in person before the courts to face trial, army officers should not be allowed virtual appearance."

"The trial for all will follow the laws of the country. Everyone has to appear before the court. The law is equal for all. Here we will examine whether they have committed the offence," said the tribunal chair.

"We have the highest respect for the army, judiciary, administration, and all others," he added, responding to submissions made by the defence for seven detained army officers.

"If this ordinance is issued, Eden and Badrunnessa will cease to exist and remain merely as faculties. We want a separate women's university comprising Eden and Badrunnessa," said a student of Eden College.

Separately, teachers from both Dhaka College and Eden College formed human chains in front of their respective campuses, demanding the cancellation of the draft geological structures, tectonic plate boundaries, and known and unknown faults, including the Madhupur and Dauki faults, and conducting surveys of active and undiscovered faults. They also called for updating the National Earthquake Risk Map.

Other recommendations included enhancing the capabilities of the Bangladesh Geological Survey Department as the lead agency and designating BGSD as the national authority for earthquake data collection and dissemination, with necessary support for equipment and infrastructure, similar to responsible agencies in other countries.

They also recommended preparing earthquake vulnerability and zoning maps based on subsurface structures, conducting detailed microzonation in Dhaka and nearby areas with geologists' active participation, and forming a coordinated task force of experts and organisations for monitoring, coordination, and evaluation of earthquake-related activities.

Tajul opposed the plea, stressing that the accused were not on trial as army personnel. "This is not a trial against the patriotic army," he said. "These accused committed the crimes while serving in Rab, which is a police unit. Outside military discipline, they committed heinous offences. They should not be allowed virtual attendance."

Sabrina Parveen of the Directorate General of Family Planning, added, "Ensuring digital safety is no longer optional -- it is a social responsibility. DGF provides emergency and psychosocial support 365 days a year, yet many survivors still do not know where to turn. We urgently need stronger digital literacy, clear referral pathways and broader community awareness."

On September 24, the interim government published the draft ordinance for the proposed Dhaka Central University, comprising the seven colleges previously affiliated with Dhaka University.

Progress will remain slow if we keep focusing on victims instead of confronting male perpetrators through education, deterrence and stronger legal consequences."

Edward Cabrera, first secretary at the High Commission of Canada, said, "Digital abuse is not virtual; it has real, devastating consequences. Globally, 38% of women have experienced online violence. UN Women reports 66% of Bangladeshi women receive explicit or threatening messages. Canada remains committed to ensuring women and girls can live free from violence, online and offline."

Sabrina Parveen of the Directorate General of Family Planning, added, "Ensuring digital safety is no longer optional -- it is a social responsibility. DGF provides emergency and psychosocial support 365 days a year, yet many survivors still do not know where to turn. We urgently need stronger digital literacy, clear referral pathways and broader community awareness."

Trishia Nashratan, adviser of Cyber Support for Women and Children, described digital spaces as a rare lifeline. "In a patriarchal culture where even a woman's phone is controlled, these digital 'third spaces' allow women to name violence, seek help and speak beyond the four walls of home."

NCP Convener Nahid Islam said, "We told the EC that the election schedule should be announced when political stability prevails, and when every party has an environment within their organisations, as well as in the overall political arena, to begin their election campaigns. If the schedule is announced at such a time, it will benefit the EC and all political parties."

Asked how the NCP now views the EC, given that the party had previously expressed distrust, Nahid said, "We still have concerns about the Election Commission. It was formed under the old law -- we objected to that. We had said it should be formed according to the proposed reforms. But we also want to move forward towards the election. Since the government has done this based on existing realities, we did not push this issue further."

NCP Chief Coordinator Nasir Uddin Patwary said, "Our uncompromising leader of democracy, Khaleda Zia, is ill. As a result, the political situation in Bangladesh is one of crisis. We are saying the schedule should be announced after overcoming these crises so that everyone can come on board and move toward the voting process."

Asked if the NCP sought a delay in the election schedule from the EC, Patwary said, "No. Why would we want to delay the schedule? We are saying the schedule should be announced after resolving the crises."

an essential role in providing accurate information, countering misinformation, and offering citizens equal access to diverse viewpoints.

"A confident, professional, and safe media sector is indispensable for a participatory, peaceful, and credible electoral processes," she said.

She said Bangladesh has experienced a profound political transition since August last year, and with that transition has come a shifting media landscape. This moment has opened space for broader public debate, increased diversity of voices, and renewed discussions on media reform, bringing both opportunities and responsibilities for all institutions, including the government, political actors, civil society, and the international community.

"As we observe these changes, it is important to remain clear-eyed about the challenges that persist. The safety of journalists remains a universal concern around the world, and Bangladesh is no exception. Too many cases of violence, harassment, and intimidation remain unresolved," she said.

"Impunity for crimes against journalists must end. Germany encourages fair and transparent judicial processes for such cases, both past and present, and stresses the importance of rule-of-law institutions that ensure accountability," she added.

Centre for Governance Studies Chair Zillur Rahman also spoke at the event.
